Season opener was a tough loss at Bowdoin, losing in the final minutes by one point. Although we struggled in the first half of the season going 0 and 4, the team stayed together and finished strong with a 3 and 1 record in the second half of the season. That one loss was a 14 to 0 gutsy performance against Trinity (well known as the NESCAC powerhouse). The ability of our team to stay together and not fall apart after such a rough start is a true testament to our seniors. Although we finished 3 and 4, I believe this season was a step forward for the future of Middlebury Football.

The Middlebury Field Hockey team, lead by Captains Janie Mackey, ng Weymouth, and Allison Smith, had a strong season out on the 2005. Suffering only four losses, the team was able to proceed into SCAC play offs and into the NCAA Regional Tournament. Seniors Lyddane, Emily Enos, and Allison Smith proved the forward line of thers to be a strong force to reckon with. The wall of defense was sweeper Janie Mackey, Whitney Boglioli, and goal keeper Meghan en, allowing only 20 goals to breach the Middlebury back line. ulating only two losses in the regular season, the Panthers advanced NESCAC Tourney with the home advantage. After a long hard fought e, the team lost to Williams in overtime but was able to make the bid, for the team's sixth overall appearance in the tournament. bury got the home advantage for the first round. Defeating ttanville, the team advanced to the second round at Bowdoin College Springfield College. Going into two over times and finally into strokes, the Middlebury Panthers lost to Springfield, ending their run NCAA tournament. The team graduates six seniors: Janie Mackey, ng Weymouth, Allison Smith, Ashley Lyddane, Emily Enos, and y Boglioli. These seniors have inspired and guided their fellow ates to be strong, hard working players, and expect them to go above yond what they have lead them to this season.

Although this season's ending w less than storybook, I think all o the Seniors would agree it was t most enjoyable of our four seas here. The team's chemistry was unparallel, and the recognition that there is more to take away from our athletic endeavor's at Middlebury than wins and losses namely, unforgettable stories, is what separated this team from all others. Not only did we enjo each other on the field, and play like a cohesive unit, we bonded around school and off-campus li brothers, and that's what we will remember. I would like to thank of the Seniors for their dedicatio hard work, leadership, and passi over our four years, and making this program so special to me an the younger guys. I would also li to thank Coach Seward on behalf of this years team, for sharing wi us his inspirational view on life, where academics and memories come first, while athletics, thoug not far behind, do take a back sea Furthermore, I'd like to wish next year's team the best of luck, and always remember the 2005 seaso with joy.

he Middlebury Women's Soccer
s always a highly competitive, esful program, and the 2006 squad prove no different. After a record-ng 2005 season, the team returned ll with high hopes and expectations ong season ahead. The ingredients a winning season were all present:
rd-year coach Peter Kim, armed with on's worth of experience; a group of motivated and cohesive 16 veterans; ated incoming class of 6 competitive is; and an early-season start with a ntensity training trip to Scandanavia, the team enjoyed 10 days of travel ugh international playing experience.
ear started on an optimistic note, with l early, tight wins, including a second-lley to come from behind and beat ecticut College in the home season
r. Other memorable wins included alfying Homecoming Day victory over rival Williams, and a tough, overtime oy against Bowdoin on Parent's end.

ltimately, the season was cterized by extremes: with emotions ng from utter exhiliaration and bria after fierce, physical battles, to asting late-game defeats. However, the battled through the rough patches, losing faith in the greatness which new lay buried within. Unfortunately, the competitive nature of the play-off loss at Bowdoin, and without at the NCAA tournament. Although re losing valuable leadership in the ors, the core of the team will return d for next year's successful season.

The 2005 men's cross country team was one of the strongest Middlebury men's teams in recent memory. We had our third best finish in the program's history at the NCAA Regional finishing eighth. The men improved the team's overall performance in every race from the previous year. We moved up one spot to finish 6th in the NESCAC Championships (only 4 points out of 5th). For the second year in a row we qualified an individual to the NCAA Championships. The team was led by seniors Garrott Kuzzy, and co-captains Nolan Sandygren and Bake Lyon. Sophomore Jimmy Butcher finished 47th out of 215 at the NCAA Championships, Middlebury's best finish in 24 years. Juniors Will McDonough and Chris Pelliccia ran strong all year and contributed valuable team points. Peter Murphy was Middlebury's top first-year and was able to crack Middlebury's top five consistently.

ur team was the largest its ever been this year, and the energy, enthusiasm and pt we gave each other made being a part of it truly rewarding. The team showed n of unity and toughness this year that made me proud. Facing stiff competition he NESCAC conference, we really came together late in the season to meet our goals. vduals on our team were certainly running well throughout the season, but we all knew te biggest challenge we faced was looming ahead at the NCAA Regional Championship t. We knew we would have to form a tight pack and really run as a team if we wanted lae in the top five and go on to Nationals. At Regionals, everyone put in their absolute t dort and we qualified. I was so happy with our team that day.

ne of the most inspiring moments of our season came, very unexpectedly, during National Championship race. The seven of us were running along, trying to block out h screaming spectators and focus on the race, when all of a sudden, three of our team mers materialized on the side of the course, screaming our names and cheering us on. y ad driven all the way from Middlebury to Ohio to watch us run. That is true team it

Ptarmigan Abbott '08

The Middlebury Equestrian Club had a great year thanks to returning upper classmen as well s a great new influx of under classmen. The fall season was very busy, with eight shows. Despite eing a small team, we held our own and even came out of one show with Ptarmigan Abbott, next ear's captain, as High Point Rider. The team also hosted a show in October where other teams in he region such as UVM, Colby-Sawyer, Dartmouth and Mt. Ida came to compete at the Equestry in Jew Haven.

The spring season was much shorter, but we still came through well at the two shows.

Between shows the team took lessons and practiced. The good weather in the spring allowed is to ride outside more often which doesn't always happen in Vermont.

Next year is another busy year for the team which will hopefully be able to continue with its success nd build the small team even more. This team has grown a lot and done amazingly well for its mall size. It was a pleasure to be a part of and I hope they continue to enjoy riding and building he team. I wish them the best of luck as they continue.

Men's Water Polo

There is little that can be said about the exploits of the Middlebury Men's Water Polo team that has not been said about the Viking invasions. This tight knit group of men came by sea, pillaged, and spread their influence to Canadian soil. The team had its most successful season ever this year with a conference championship and a 10 th place finish at club nationals. We owe our success to the prowess and individuality of the team's many members. We would like to thank the coach and captain of our vessel. Brian's devotion to the team has gotten us to where we are today.

The 2005-2006 indoor Track and Field season comprised a total of seven meets. Opening with Dartmouth Relays, the team also competed at Wesleyan, UVM, McGill, and Bowdoin in preparation for the championship meets in late February and March. Notable performances at the New England Championships at M.I.T (men) and Bowdoin (women) and at the last-chance qualifying meet for NCAA's hosted by Trinity at Yale, highlighted a particularly strong indoor season.

The two-month training period prior to the competitions in January paid off with six members of the team qualifying for D3 New England's their first meet. Qualifiers included senior Matt Engler in the 55m hurdles, junior Pascal Losambe in the shot put, senior Whitney Creed and sophomore Jen Currie in the weight throw, first-year Emily Coles in the 55m and 55m hurdles, and first-year Jen Katz in the 55m dash.

The season gained momentum with strong finishes across the board. Highlights included: Katz breaking and rebreaking school records in the 55m and 200m, first-years Emily Coles, Jennifer Brenes, and Kelley Coughlan, and veterans Kevin Bright and Pat Swan consistently placing well, junior Will McDonough setting a school record in the 3000m, and junior Meira Lifson, sophomore Sarah Wilson, and first-year Emer Feighery sweeping the pole vault at Bowdoin.

Outstanding performances by the rookies inspired the entire team to get as many people as possible qualified for championship meets. At the New England Championships, the women finished 12th of 22 teams, the men 16th out of 24 teams. Jen Katz, Emer Feighery, Simone Weisman, Sarah Wilson, Emily Coles, Jennifer Brenes, Kevin Bright, Patrick Swan, Will McDonough, and Jimmy Butcher received All-New England honors. By ending the indoor season on such a strong note, we ensured ourselves a promising outdoor season!

Mickey Gilchrist '08, Jeff Smith '05.5 and Yen-I Chen '06 with trophy.

This was another great year for the Middlebury Men's Ice Hockey program as it captured its 3rd consecutive and 8th NCC Championship in 12 seasons. This season saw the Panthers go 26-2-2 and they won every tournament (4) they were involved in -on a side note, they also won a soccer match against the women's soccer team. It was also the third consecutive championship that both the men's and women's hockey team both won. Highlights also include 6:15am dry-land, 2600+ fans at the Norwich g and the Cowboy/Pig Roast End-of-Season Banquet. Many thanks go out to all the fans, supporters, and those involved in making Middlebury College hockey the success it is.

Yen-i Chen and Eric Lafreniere were both named to the All-NESCAC Academic Team, while Mickey Gilchrist and Jeff Smith both named to the First-Team All-NESCAC and All-American. Gilchrist was also named USCHO and New England Writers D.III pla of-the-year. "Wild" Bill Beaney won D.III coach-of-the-year. Team awards include: Most Improved Player: Richie Fuld; Most Valua Player: Mickey Gilchrist; Player who best demonstrates the spirit of a Middlebury hockey player: Yen-i Chen; and Ryan MacQuillar awarded the William Wallace Award for the non-player who was most helpful to the success of the program. Ryan was also awar the 'Greek' award. Seniors: Yen-i Chen will be attending McGill University to become a medical doctor, while Brad Michalchuk who decided to leave in January to concentrate on his thesis will be earning his doctorate in Geology at Rice University. Jeff Smit is playing a year of hockey in Gap, France, while Ryan MacQuillan is pursuing his dreams of becoming a stick-boy for an NHL tea taking his first step by working in a sports-related industry. As the team only graduates a couple seniors, expect the Panthers to another great season next year.

Coming off the 2004-2005 NCAA and NESCAC pionship winning season, the women's hockey had a tough act to follow. However, with Bill go at the helm and strong leadership, the was well situated to make a run for a three- t. Furthermore, with 19 returning players and a first-year class, expectations for the group were h. The season opened with two tough games, first atch of the 2005 championship game against ia, and then a game with rival Plattsburgh. The ter's came out of that weekend victorious and e looked back, starting the season 18-0. After two cks in early February the team regrouped for their ff run.

The team earned the number 1 seed in the AC playoffs and the right to host the tournament e first time since 2002. After beating Colby in d-fought game the team went on to demolish oin 8-2 for the NESCAC title. In the NCAA's ad to the title was much like the previous playing Manhattanville in the quarterfinals hen Gustavus Adolphus in the semifinals. The pionship game pitted Middlebury against burgh, in their rink. This marked the third he teams met, and Plattsburgh had handed ebury a loss the last time they played. This the Panthers were too much for Plattsburgh and tins Emily Quizon, up front, and Kate Kogut, al, led the team to a third consecutive NCAA pionship. The team ended the season 27-2, and 7 wins tied the school record. This team lived up eir potential and achieved the season motto Make Day Count.

The 2005-2006 Women's Basketball team was senior dominated. There was a lot of experience on the team, with seniors Katie Fehsenfeld, Lacey Hebert (both returning from knee surgeries), Micaela McVary, Maryanne Verzosa, and Erica Goodman leading the team both on and off the court. Added to a very strong underclassmen skill base, there were high expectations to succeed. The team traveled to St. Louis for an opening tournament, and the loss to Washington University was the only before Winter Break. With a strong record, the team entered the highly competitive NESCAC regular season play. The highlight of the season was the overtime win against Tufts. After sophomore Katie Fisher hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer to tie the game, Middlebury took over in the extra minutes for a decisive win. The team went on to end their season with an overall record of 14 wins and 10 losses.

Men's Swimming:

Despite an early exit for the men's swim team, season was filled with many exciting highlights. man swimmer Zach Woods was surely the talk season. Unheralded coming out of high school, more than filled the void left by Jason Korsmeyer backstroke. By the end of the regular season was one of the top swimmers in the nation in the yrd backstroke and was besting Kosmeyer's in a times each time he got in the water. With the of Rob Collier from Italy and the improvement bie Burton the medley relay lead off by Woods a pace to demolish school records.

At nationals, represented by senior Diving n Tristram Arscott, Middlebury finished in 35th with fourteen points. Arscott finished fifth in e-meter diving competition, qualifying himself -American status. Tris is the first Middlebury diver to accomplish this over the last four years. ng forward to next season the outlook looks sing with the acquisition of the conference's top reestyler and the reemergence of the swimming ving team into the NESCAC championships.

Women's Swimming:

From the first day of the 2005-2006 season, the Middlebury Women's Swimming and Diving Team had the excitement that was going to take them to success for the season. The team met its share of ups and downs but was able to persevere through unity and performance. Led by a group of dedicated captains and talented seniors, the Women Panthers had a successful season. They posted a record of 7-2 with eight team records, eight All-Americans, and two All-American Honorable mentions.

The NESCAC Championships, held at Bowdoin College, illustrated the Middlebury Women's renowned spirit and unity in the pool and on deck. The women were cheered on by many fans including the Middlebury men's team dressed as "Smurfs". The Panthers took second place to Williams College with Amherst College coming in third. Several individual swims and dives by Middlebury stole the show which set the bar for the up-and-coming NCAA championships. At the NCAA's at Carleton College in Minnesota, the Panthers finished eighth out of 51 teams. Throughout the season the Panthers exhibited tremendous hard work and dedication that was apparent through the success of the season.

This season began early this fall and did n end until last week at NCAAs last year we only s 3skiers to NCAAs while this year we sent a full squad (6 skiers, 3 men, 3 women) out to Colora
On the men's side, we had a great senior representation, 2 captains, Jake Whitcomb, and Donovan Dums; the third senior on the squad w Garrott Kuzzy, finishing his college experience participating in EVERY carnival from freshman to senior year, and 4-time NCAA skier. Our juniors, Beau Baldoc and Chris Rodgers, were great role models to the younger skiers. Both skiers spent a year in Norway (Beau) and Swede (Chris) and probably know the most about train and technique. Bryce Connery spent the fall in Bozeman Mt where he experienced a life he nev could have seen at Middlebury. Sophomores Jimmy Ades and Matt Johnson were solid carniv skiers. (Matt represented the US Ski team at the World Junior XC Ski Championships in Europe for two weeks in January.) Our freshmen, Tim Reynolds (NCAA qualifier) Dane Johnson (top 1 result at Midd Carnival), Simon Thomas-Train, Cameron MacKugler, and Simi Hamilton all have the potential to race in NCAAs next year.
We have some great leaders and awesome talen coming up next year, and I believe we will only improve our position in the east next year.

This year:2nd in every carnival as a ski tea but men's Nordic almost every time was the bes team in the east. We should only get better.

Women's Nordic Ski Team

The 2006 women's team started fast with a team win at St. Lawrence and a strong second place finish at Colby. The women's carnival team was led by seniors Claire Anderson, Jenny Jorvig, and Taylor Leach. They were joined by juniors Jenny Hamilton, Evelyn Dong, and first-year sensation, Cassidy Edwards. Cassidy surprised even herself in winning the St. Lawrence classic race in her second appearance wearing Panther colors in a very unusual race. Due to the lack of snow, the race was moved from the Olympic venue of Mt. Van Hovenberg to the Olympic ski jumps. The course was basically a series of intervals as the skiers climbed an access road one kilometer to the top of the landing hill and then screamed down to the bottom for another climb. Cassidy must have liked the format as she won her first carnival by two seconds! Cassidy was followed by Evelyn in 4th, and Robyn Anderson in 10th to secure the win.

Evelyn Dong led the team with five top-five finishes in the freestyle event. She saved her best carnival performance for the final race of the year. In the Middlebury Carnival mass start 15k classic race she skied away from the entire field to win by almost a full minute! The women's team kept up our tradition of skiing well in the Middlebury carnival. Even though the event had to be moved to Craftsbury, VT due to the lack of snow, the team skied like they had a home course advantage placing three skiers in the top seven. Evelyn, Cassidy, and Jenny Hamilton placed 1st, 5th , and 7th to secure a second place finish in the event and an eventual trip to the NCAA Championships.

Inspired by women's captain, Lizzie Torkelson, the women's team worked hard, displayed perseverance, determination and class all year and finished the year ranked as one of the top teams in the east.

The squash season proved to be the most competit season for a number of years. In 7 of the Middlebury matches, the result ended either 5-4 in our favor including two 5-4 victories over Amherst, or 4-5 against us. The team improved it's overall ranking and was bolstered by the arrival of 3 very talented 1st year play Sally Hatfield, Caroline Woodworth and Avery Tilney. A the team National championships, Middlebury moved up a Division while at the individual championships Hannah Baker had a very impressive performance. In addition, Hannah Baker played consistently at #1 and had a number of outstanding victories, including a couple of victories over the #1 at Amherst. Much of the success of the team was attributable to the excellent leadership provided by the captains, Kara Zarchin and Caitlin Flint. Their terrific work ethic in practice and their positive attitude away from the court set the standard for future Middlebury squash teams.

Men's Squash

The Middlebury Men's Squash Club had its most successful season ever in 2005-. Its five-year history, the Men's Squash Club has gone from a handful of semi-serious rs to a club of nearly 30 participants and an elite team of 12 players. These top 12 players ped in 11 intercollegiate matches, 3 intercollegiate scrimmages and finished with a 4-7 collegiate record and a ranking of 24th in the country (and as the nation's best club team, nd perennial athletic powerhouse Stanford University). To be sure, the 2005-2006 season n unsition from a team on the rise to a team that had arrived.

With three-year number one Alex Nadas and athletic superhero, samba-sporting Jeff an entering their final season as captains, the year looked promising. These two players pen part of the team since its nascent stages, and were determined to leave nothing on the r athey began their final season. The team's guiding light was Coach Dave Schwarz (of on Division III Tennis Coach of the Year fame). Schwarz started the program in 2000 wley, club sport. Much of the team's progress can be attributed to Schwarz's belief in on squash program at Middlebury as well as his talents as a coach on and off the court. wa set a tone for the season when he told squashalk.com in November that "this is dlbury's best freshman [squash] class ever."

The season started well with a home opener win against Colgate and a tough, yet uging loss (5-4) to St. Lawrence. Two more road trips, one to Massachusetts and the t Connecticut gave the Middlebury team a chance to register wins against Northeastern, n, MIT, Washington State and a shorthanded Amherst team. Middlebury also had the rthity to play some of the stronger members of the Hartford Golf Club; excepting a few s, e youthful Middlebury athletes quickly reminded the club members of their age (and osly thanked them for their hospitality by offering Cam Waldman to play a few challenge h). Strong play throughout the season brought Middlebury to Trinity for the first ever C C Championships. At NESCACs Middlebury placed second to the bottom, but that rough to give Middlebury a ranking of 24 as the season neared its end. With this ranking, dlbury was given a C – Division berth for the National tournament at Princeton. Nationals g Middlebury tough losses but also quite a few individual triumphs, especially from some ie at the top.

New to the team were J.P. Sardi, Gordon McMorris, Ben Broad, and Jack Lysohir, who would go on to play numbers one, two, six, and seven, respectively. Sardi and McMorris both had banner years as they each won the majority of their matches at the very top of the ladder—McMorris was undefeated all the way until the NESCAC Championships. Matches of particular note were McMorris's 5 game come from behind win against Wesleyan in NESCAC's to help take the team match 5-4, as well as his strong win against Colby's number two, despite an injury. Sardi showed his determination as he, dressed entirely in black, meticulously took down Northeastern's powerful number one in a great match in front of bitter Boston crowd.

Middlebury saw great play from veterans as well. Co-captain Jeff Wieland's tremendous athleticism starting at the number one spot and later at number three was an inspiration. Wieland set a tone of intense competition during the season's very first match as he defeated Colgate's number one in a major battle. Co-captain Alex Nadas also played strong squash, coming up huge in the team's final match against Stanford, his last match as a Middlebury College Panther. Sophomore Will "The Thrill" Carroll also stepped up, registering wins against Amherst and GWU. The team saw solid play throughout the year from Zach Foster who came up with a win against Stanford. Brandon Avrutin and Ben Broad also played some solid matches, rounding out the ladder with assorted wins.

Although plagued by a lack of funds and the stigma of "enhanced club" status, the 2005-2006 season was a special one for the Middlebury College men's squash team. The light-hearted, and spirited humor that pervaded all of the team's practices, bus rides, and matches, made the entire experience eminently enjoyable. The leadership of Alex Nadas and Jeff Wieland was a major part of the team's success. These two players were inspirational as role models on and off the court, and led the team with maturity and vigor. Coach Schwarz too had much to do with the season's success, his focus on how best to compete surely helped to improve many player's games and will continue to help players as they battle on the court in coming seasons. This was an unforgettable one for the members of the men's squash team; pre-match routines included the study and mastery of ancient Turkish pre-matrimonial traditions, players used their wit and quips to cut other teams (and their own teammates) down to size, vacations were spent bone fishing, and there was the perpetually missing Pizzle. To be sure, memories of this season inspire only three words, "oh wow, Great."

The 2006 Middlebury Men's Lacrosse team enjoyed another successful season, capturing another NESCAC championship and a berth in the NCAA tournament. In what turned out to be Head Coach Erin Quinn's final season as head lacrosse coach, as he moves to the Athletic Director job at Middlebury, the 2006 team reached the NCAA quarterfinals befo losing to the eventual NCAA champion, Cortland State.

After beginning the season with three losses in the first six games, the 2006 team overcame the loss of an extremely talented 2005 senior class, as well as some key underclassmen losses before the season opener, to win the rest of their gam until the Cortland game. The 2006 team once again hosted the NESCAC championship weekend after securing the first seed after a regular season that saw the Panthers win several one-goal games in thrilling fashion after an early loss to Wesleyan. the NESCAC tournament, the Panthers culminated an extremely competitive NESCAC season by knocking off Tufts in three overtimes in the semifinals before exacting revenge against Wesleyan with a win that will go down in Middlebury Lacrosse history. Senior defenseman Gabe Wood picked up a loose ball in front of the net during a Wesleyan man advantage with the game tied at 9 late in the 4th quarter and rushed to the other end of the field, dodging several Cardinals on his way to burying the winning shot as time expired.

In the second round of the NCAA tournament, Middlebury avenged another early season loss to Springfield by complete dismantling the Pride by a score of 17-4 in what turned out to be the 2006 seniors final game at Middlebury. Against Cortland, the Panthers dug themselves a deep hole by falling behind 10-2 at the start of the fourth quarter. A furious rally b the Panthers brought the score to 11-8 with two minutes left before the Red Dragons secured a key face-off and scored the game's final goal, ending the Panthers season.

Numerous Panthers garnered a handful of individual awards, including all conference, all New England, all ECAC, All-American and Scholar All-American. The 2006 Middlebury Men's Lacrosse team produced an excellent season for all involve with several incredible wins and sent Coach Quinn off with another NESCAC championship and his 200th career win.

Baseball writer, Jim Bouton, once said, "you spend a good piece of your life gripping a baseball and in the end it turns out that it was the other way around..." After 16 years of baseball, I can finally relate to Mr. Bouton's words. The 2006 season was far and away the most significant athletic experiences of my life, and I'm sure the other seniors on the team would also consider it to be an unforgettable season for them as well. The 2006 Panthers rewrote the record books in countless categories. From breaking the all-time win record at 26, to advancing to the NESCAC and Regional playoffs for the first time in school history, our team can be proud of the strides we have made in our program. Aside from our team's collective success, I am most proud to be part of a group that exhibited such resilience and energy game after game. Our universal passion for Middlebury baseball brought me closer to my teammates and coaches than ever before.

As Alex Casnocha reminded us game in and game out, "We're just makin memories, baby!" That quote summed up the season for our team. We will always remember our Game 3 comeback against Williams in Arizona. We will always remember shutting out Wesleyan on their field to advance to NESCACs. We will always remember our NESCAC tournament sweep over Colby and Bowdoin. And we will never forget the time spent in Cape Cod for the New England Regional Tournament. It was truly an honor playing beside the 29 other guys on the team, and a pleasure to be coached by Bob Smith, Bill Hageman, and Mike Phelps. Giving up baseball will be one of the most difficult things I will have to deal with in my life. More importantly, being separated from my teammates and coaches will be even harder to overcome. However, the 2006 season has provided me with enough memories for the game to continue "gripping" my life.

The 2006 Middlebury Softball Team finished its on 15-9 but fell short of a NESCAC tournament bid o a tie-breaker. The team was led by senior tri- tins Kathryn Hurd, Victoria Glowacky, and Lauren tglia. Hurd and Glowacky were both named to ll-NESCAC All-Academic Team along with juniors len Sullivan, Susan Miranowski, and Lily Hamburger. tglia was named to the All-NESCAC second team.

Despite the disappointing ending, the season was with great heart and undying dedication on part the players. The girls never gave up and fought all their heart during every pitch of every inning of game. Highlights of the season included two come behind wins against Wesleyan to maintain a top ing in the Western Conference. Jennifer Williams Brittany Burke led the panther pitching and both great promise for next year as they will once again the team's efforts. The team looks to return to the AC Tournament next year under the leadership of ains Colleen Sullivan and Maura Casey.

Men's Golf

The Middlebury Golf season was littered with both impressive individual and team performances. Leading the team in scoring average for the season was Harry Bane '08.5. Bane gained confidence throughout his first collegiate campaign en route to being named NESCAC Rookie of the Year with a second-place showing at the conference championship. In the final round at the Taconic Golf Club, Bane posted a one-over 72 with five birdies. Bane finished the season with a 78.0 stroke average and will continue to improve as he becomes more comfortable with the collegiate experience. Chad Bellmare '07 was not far behind Bane with several successful outings. Bellmare was named to the All-NEIGA team for the second straight season and shot a season-low 72 at the challenging Saratoga National Golf Club. Rounding out Middlebury's impressive top-three was Wisconsin's own Geordy Baumann. Baumann shot a season-low 74 on two separate occasions at Taconic and finished the season with a 79.3 scoring average. Baumann is a talented player who will continue to blossom in his final two years at the College. Despite these impressive showings, however, Derek Singer '05.5 owned the low round of the year with a final-round 71 at the Williams Invitational in September.

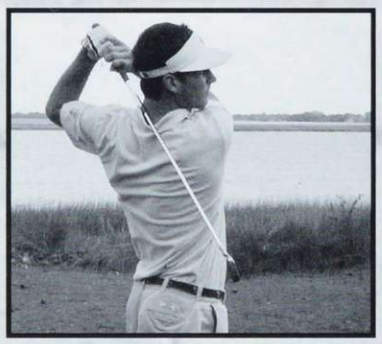
Unfortunately, as a whole, the team struggled to maintain consistency throughout the season. With high hopes going into the 2005-2006 campaign, Middlebury could only muster a 5th place finish in its own Duke Nels Invitational, a 9th place finish in the Williams Invitationa and a disappointing 4th place finish in the NESCAC chan pionship. The team's strongest single-day performance came in the final round of "The Duke" when each of Middlebury's starting-five posted scores in the 70s. Mitc St. Peter's 78 was trumped by a 74 from Bellmare, a 75 f both Baumann and Singer, and a 76 from Bane for a 301 total. Throughout the rest of the year, however, the tean had trouble finding the finishing kick it exhibited at "Th Duke."



Mitch St. Peter '06.5

Bar-none the team's most enjoyable experience was its Spring-break trip to Jekyll Island/Sea Island, GA. The team had the privilege to play two rounds at the exclusive Ocean Forest Golf Club and also competed at the Jekyll Island Invitational against Division III's strongest golf programs. The Jekyll Island Invitational was an important experience for the aspiring program and exposed the team to the caliber of golf it needs to attain if it hopes to become one of New England's dominant teams.

(Clockwise starting from the far left) Allison Ortega, Kerry Ortega, Julie Ellenberger, Tory MacNeil, and Karen Levin after their win in the fall at the Wellesley Tournament when they heard that they were NESCAC champions. The win came down to their last player coming in with a good score and they did it.

Golf is a highly individual sport. A golfer's performance depends cone but herself - not her opponents and not even her team ers. Thus the sport encourages personal accountability and an dual mindset. That is why I find it striking that the Middlebury n's golf team is so close-knit. I think we compete much better as u than we each could compete on our own because we understand motivate, support, and push each other. Our performance as a his year qualified us to go to the NCAAs in Florida. However, we ot invited because we played with only 4 players in the spring usually consist of 5 players with the best 4 scores selected after ay of competition) and according to the NCAA's giant rulebook, "a consists of 5 players". But they did allow us to keep our ranking: 5th nation. And nothing could interfere with our happiness with our mance and with each other...we had way too much fun.

Julie Ellenberger, the freshman on the team, was named to NGCA nal Golf Coaches Association) All-Region Team and set a course at Taconic Golf Club in Williamstown, Mass. for women's collegiate titive golf, shooting a 74 in the Spring District Shootout. She also herself in the bathroom in the fall (by accident).

Sally Hartman is our only graduating senior and our MVP. She rose to the occasion when we needed her this year. We will miss her ad always intelligent comments.

This was Middlebury Women's Golf's best spring ever, and the fall ot too shabby either. We won a ton of tournaments and there are more to come. Thank to our coaches George Phinney and Bill y for all of your wise words about golf and about golf and life... sand traps and trick shots to piggy banks and buffalo mascots.

This year we saw many great performances from new players and old players alike. The women's team continually battled hard against teams three times our size both physically and in numbers. Another unexpected opponent was the weather with large mud puddles serving as extra defenders on several occasions. Despite some big losses there were big gains tactically and in confidence. Best of all was the camaraderie that formed this season, which allowed us to stick together on the field and off. As the team continues to grow and improve we look forward to many successes in the coming seasons.

The Middlebury Lady Pranksters played (and partied) hard this year from Maine to Georgia and everywhere in between. Led by a talented group of vets and an all-star lineup of rookies, the ladies scored big wins against rivals in the New England region and suprised many teams with their strength and determination throughout the Spring. This fun loving group of athletic lizadies tore it up on the field and the dance floor. Even the well-known swill-monkey and all-around bugsy Rick Chauncey cracked a grin as the Lady Pranksters got it done.

Crazy, colorful, and competitive, the Middlebury Pranksters have a reputation around campus for their zaniness, yet they still manage to field a high-caliber Ultimate Frisbee team. Open to anyone willing to learn how to throw a forehand, the team emphasizes inclusiveness and encourages all levels of participation.

Despite being in what some called a "rebuilding year," the Prankster men's squad came together as a team during the Spring 2006 college season, winning all ten of their games at the annual High Tide tournament in Savannah, GA during Spring Break. They defeated Northwestern 13-3 in the finals to bring home the trophy, their second title at High Tide in as many years. At College Southerns the same week, they gave Dartmouth and Virginia two extremely close games, proving they could play competitively with two of the better teams in the nation. Later in the season, the Prankster men's and women's teams qualified for New England Regionals, an accomplished feat in its own right. The season culminated with their annual home tournament, "Get Ho, Get Lei'd" on May 13 and 14. College and club teams came to Middlebury from all over the Northeast (and as far as Canada and Illinois) to participate in a fun, laid-back weekend of Ultimate, barbecuing, and partying.

Despite losing thirteen seniors to graduation, the future promises to bring more success to the team. A strong class of rising juniors stands poised to huck, bid, pillage, and burn the competition for the next two years.

Women's Water Polo

Middlebury Women's Water Polo has been a club sport at the college for several years, but the 2006 season was the best in the school's history. Led by Coach Brian Goodwin and the many seniors, the team soared through challenging and crucial victories and earned an invitation to the CWPA National Tournament at Northwestern University in Evanston, IL.

In the first regulation tournament, Middlebury went 3-1 at Williams College beating Dartmouth College for the first time in the team's history and losing only to Yale University. After a successful trip to MIT in Cambridge to practice against one of the top teams in club water polo, the Middlebury team traveled to Dartmouth College where they continued the winning season repeating their performance of 3-1 losing again to Yale's "A" team. On the weekend of April 22nd, the team was finally able to show its strength at home during the New England Division Championship. The Middlebury women took second place in championship, beating long-time superpower Dartmouth College for the second time in school history in overtime with an unprecedented crowd filling the Middlebury natatorium. The team went on to the National Championship where they finished in eleventh place, ahead of their long-time rival Yale University, who had defeated Middlebury in the New England Championship game.

In summary, the 2006 season proved to be an integral piece in the growth of the Middlebury Women's Water Polo program and will be remembered for its many firsts, and a dedicated and enthusiastic group of women.

For the 2005-2006 season, the Middlebury Co-ed Competitive Cheerleading Team nged itself to achieve a higher level of skill and excellence than ever before. A club sport since 2002, Midd Cheer is composed of male and female students sted in stunting, dance, gymnastics, and cheer. While the team is mainly focused mpeting in regional and national competitions, the cheerleaders also perform in s events on campus to raise school spirit. In the fall, the team hosted their annual Cheer Talent Show to raise money to fund their travels in the spring. They also ted routines at various sporting events, the Winter Carnival Cultural Gala, and the nce Show.

During the spring competition season, Midd Cheer won four trophies in the co-ed division and placed higher than in all years past. Matching up against teams as SUNY Albany, Keene State, Yale, and Mount Holyoke, the cheerleaders competed r cheer and dance competitions under the guidance of Coach Katie Cobelli '04. ling to Niagara Falls, the team competed in their first ever national competition ut forth a near-flawless routine earning them a first place trophy—a true milestone e Midd Cheer program. In early March, competition heated up once again in Ross Dining Hall as Cook Commons and Wonnacott Commons battled it out to see who would claim the title of Iron Chef. Head Chef Jay Yonamine '07 assisted by Andrew Bermudez '07 and Charles Cavness '09 represented Cook while Head Chef Maggie Higgins '08 assisted by Emi Neithercut '08 and Nick Monier '08 represented Wonnacott. The secret ingredient turned out to be pineapple. Although a hard item to incorperate into 5 dishes, these chefs managed to create some mouth watering dishes. In the end, Jay and his team were able to claim the title of Iron Chef for Cook Commons.

Midd8

Throughout the month of April, multiple events tied to the UN's 8 Millenium Goals set at the turn of the 21st Century took place. Midd8, organized by Courtney Matson '06 and Divya Khosla '06, worked to raise global awareness through lectures, pannel disscussions,T-shirt stenciling and more. Condoms handed out with lollipops as a way to remind students of the continuing struggle with AIDs in third world countries, spray painting T-shirts with the United Nations Millenium Goals on them, and a disscussion with Congressmen and Senate Candidate Bernie Sanders were just a few of the highlights of Midd8.

SGA Presidential and SCCOCC Debates

With April, came campaign time for SGA Presidental and Student Co-Chair of Community Council (SCCOCC) hopefuls. This year Alex Stanton '07 and Alina Levina '09 ran for SGA president while Annie Williams '07, Ryan Tauriainen '08, and Mike Tierney '08.5 ran for SCCOCC. This year, campaigning was colorful to say the least with a much more heated atmosphere. Right before elections, the candidates were able to voice their thoughts and opinions in an open debate. Though attendence was not huge, much was gained by this debate. With the close of the elections, Alex Stanton was named next year's SGA President while Annie Williams claimed the title of SCCOCC.

With the new changes in liquor laws and the celebration of our centennial just a year ago, the alpha chapter of Kappa Delta Rho started out the year with a little bit of a breather. However, the quiet times didn't last too long with the addition of two new pledge classes and a bunch of rowdy seniors. We hosted some old time favorite parties like the marriage party and Pig Roast and added to it some new flare with live bands turning our living room into a dance hall. We hosted trick-or-treaters, Easter egg hunters, and Olympians. We played games on the lawn, barbequed, and welcomed alumni home. It was a great way to start off our next 100 years!

Tavern (Omega Alpha)

This fall, Tavern fell under the leadership of President Andrew Barriger and VP Tony Piacenza whose strong work and dedication to progress kept Omega Alpha on top of the social house scene. Under the guidance of Chris Shea, Pledge Educator, the house welcomed in 25 new members, the largest pledge class in Tavern history. In J-term, Chris Shea and Jess MacArtney became the new President and VP. The new leaders have been successful in running the house over J-term and the spring semester and we look forward to their continued efforts next fall.

Led by Pledge Educator, Matt Corrente, two more members were welcomed into the house during the spring, and consequently, Omega Alpha kept its status as the second largest social house at Middlebury. Tavern has hosted many successful parties this year, solidifying its position at the forefront of Midd's social scene. Additionally, the house as a whole has reached out to the community by participating in service projects such as Relay for Life, which raised a substantial amount of money and awareness for cancer research. A large number of Tavern members graduated in 2006, but the house looks to continue to be active within the surrounding community next year as more of the younger members begin to take on leadership roles.

Weybridge

House Meeting

ssa Denton and Mike Ives

Members of Weybridge House, the environmental cooperative located on the corner of Weybridge and College Streets, had another busy year of involvement in environmental initiatives at both the local and national levels. In Middlebury, Weybridge continued to support local farmers by buying all house food from them directly or from the town Co-op, inviting members of the larger community--including students, professors, and local Vermonters--for dinners every Monday through Thursday. A large number of house members continued to lead various green initiatives on campus, including the increasingly popular Sunday Night Group, a student organization dedicated to carbon reduction and the fight against global warming.

Many Weybridgites, activist by nature, also took their passion for environmental issues beyond our bucolic Vermont valley. Several house members joined other Midd Kids at a protest against the Iraq War in New York City this past spring, marching down a Broadway Avenue packed with onlookers, carrying a banner proclaiming "No More Oil Wars, Clean Energy Now!," and singing various protest songs. Others expanded upon their work with the Sunday Night Group by attending larger conferences on global warming at places like Montreal and Yale University, aiming to influence national environmental policies and broaden public consciousness.

Xenia, the substance-free social house, finished this year with a net increase in membership, and is looking for ways to expand the opportunities for substance-free socialization on campus. From root-beer keggers and game nights to mocktails and contra-dances, Bowker carries on as the place for "hip," "happening," and drug and alcohol-free social events.

Corey,

It's hard to find something profound to say that will express how proud of you we are and how much we love you. It's beyond description....

As you get closer to moving forward with your life, we wonder if we've done enough to prepare you for this day, but we see the answer in the man that you've become.
We've only been able to share our experiences with you- you will learn from your own.
Remember Corey, the best teacher you have is the one within you and the most valuable lessons have yet to be learned.

No matter how far your life takes you, you'll never be too far from home.

Monkey-

Congratulations! You are the best role model and inspiration a little sister could have. I can't believe your graduating already; it seems like just yesterday you became a Midd Kid! I can only hope I have even half the presence you have on the Middlebury campus. You never stop amazing me and I'm so proud to have you as an older brother. Your future is so bright and I can't wait to see where you go in life! Remember to follow your passions and never let anything get in your way!

It seems like only yesterday
That we were writing your yearbook page for high school,
And here we are an incredibly quick 4 years later,
Writing in celebration of your college graduation.
Time is passing much too quickly.

We said it then, and we say it again,
You have always made us proud,
Every day of your life,
Both of the wonderful person you are,
And of how you live your life.
You have worked hard to achieve your goals,
Been the best daughter, sister, granddaughter,
And enjoyed a life of friendship and fun.

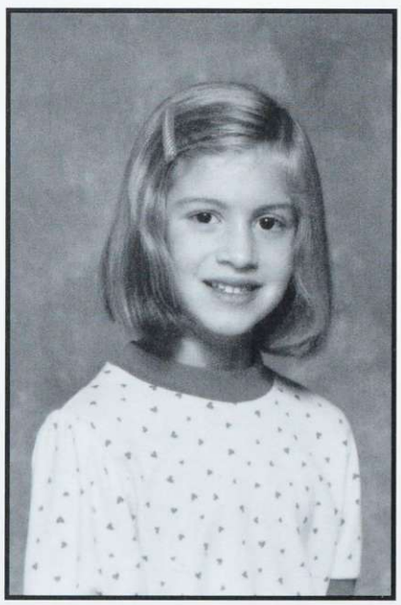
You have done it all.

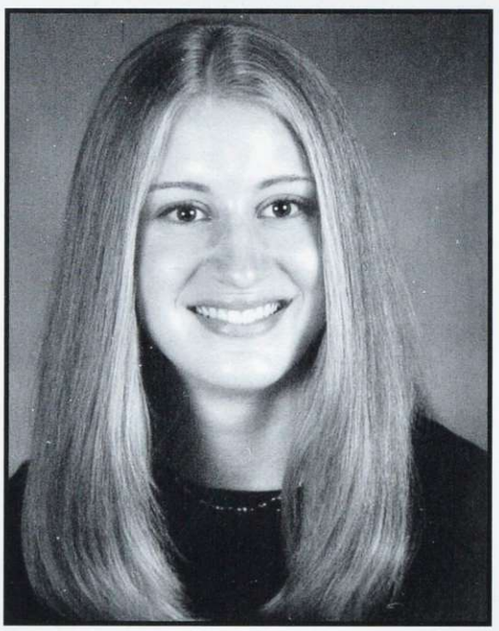
We're sure you will do no less,
As you begin the next exciting chapter of your life.

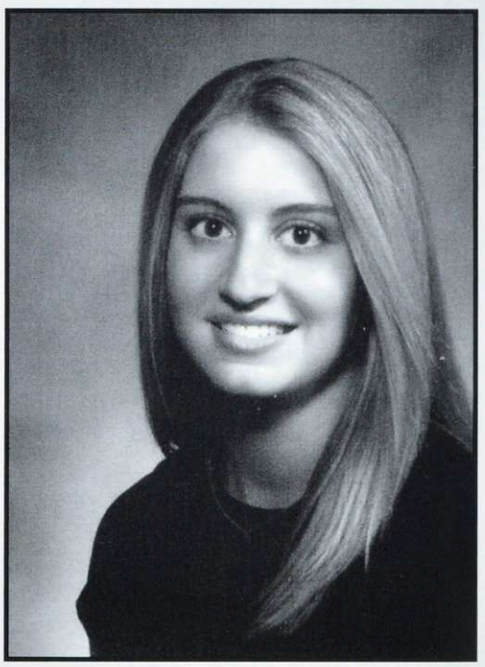
Conitinue to follow your dreams and your heart,
And your lifewill always be filled
With happiness, love, and success.
These are our wishes for you.

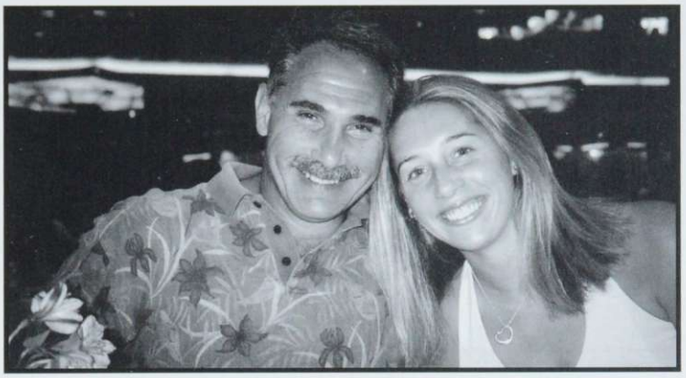
WE LOVE YOU VERY MUCH

MOM, DAD, and MICHAEL

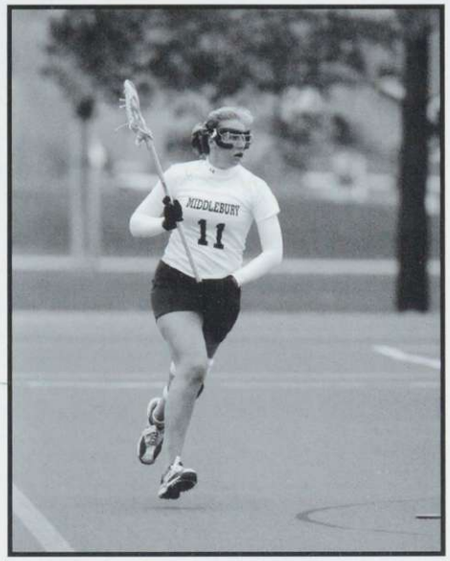


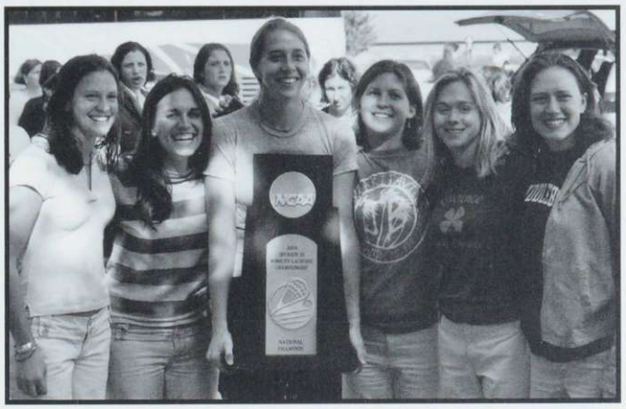






"The biggest adventure you can ever take is to live the life of your dreams."
-Oprah Winfrey

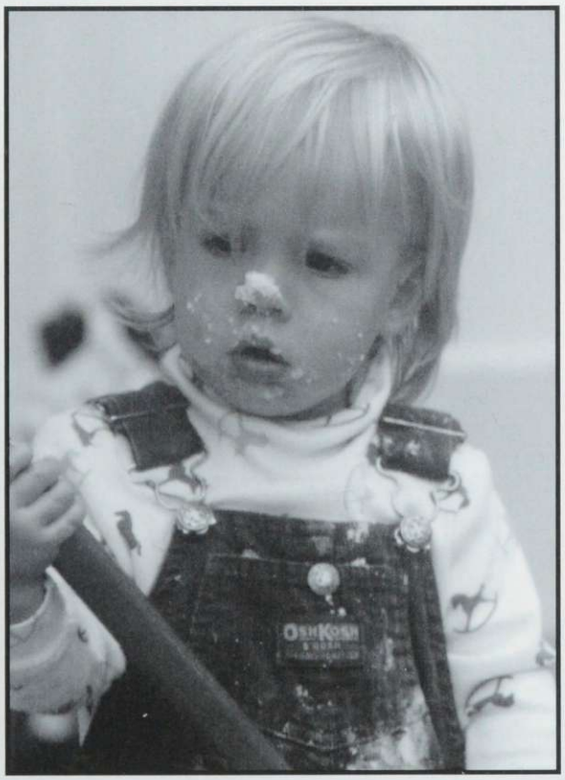


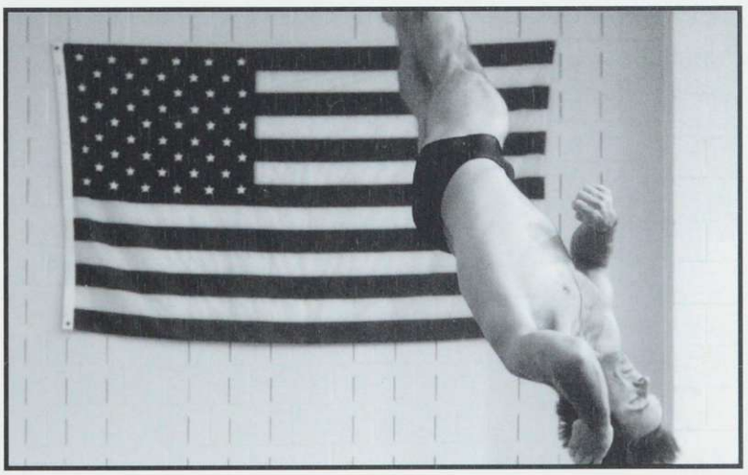


MICHELLE
Keep that great smile and your infectious laugh!
CONGRATULATIONS to you for a job well done!!

We love you, MOM, DAD, and JULIA

Tristram!





You are amazing! Loving, thoughtful, caring, striving, pouring all of yourself into every endeavor. We are so proud of you and blessed to have you as our son/brother.

We love you forever!

Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp,
Or what's a heaven for?
-Robert Browning

Matt,

Even as a child you had the power of persuasion,
now more finely honed with the skill of your pen, assuring that your reach has no boundaries, heaven or no.

Congratulations, not only for your accomplishments, but for who you are.

Love,

Mom and Dad

Jeff- may the fishing and the catching be rewarding in the ponds and the rivers of the future!

Congratulations on all you have accomplished-
With love
Mom, Dad and Andrew

Russ

Congratulations!
May you have a lifetime of joy and happiness and continue to bring the same to your family and friends.
Love Always and All Ways,
Mom, Dad, & Matt

P.S. Life is either a daring adventure or nothing. -Helen Keller

Go, Ramsay, Go!

Congratulations!

This has been a long yearbook in the making. Despite the fact that the Kaleidoscope was very understaffed this year, we were able to put together a yearbook to be proud of. I would like to thank Adriane Medina and Merissa Kraham for all of their hard work. I would also like to thank The Campus photographers for all of their wonderful photos that they allowed us to use in order to make this book possible, especially Photo Editor Vlad Lodoaba who granted us access to the photos. A special thanks to everyone who answered our requests for photo and name submissions, write ups, etc. especially Brad Nadeau and the members of the senior class who put up with my constant e-mails requesting study abroad and senior photos and those who took the time to respnd to last minute requests for photos over the summer! Without their help, the yearbook would not be what it is. The Kaleidoscope staff would also like to thank our advisor Charlotte Chase as well as Tammy Grant, Doug Adams, and Derek Doucet of the CCAL office for their constant support and guidence and to Matt Clark, our Josten Publishing Representative, and Christina Ripka, our plant consultant, for their help and patience with. Last, but certainly not least, thank you to all of our patrons and sponsors for without whose added financial support, this book would not have been possible.
